Meeting the challenges of Agriculture and Forestry with Commissioner Bob Odom

Dismal cotton prices leave Louisiana farmers little choice but to slash 2002 plantings of its most valuable crop, taking up the slack with a second-tier substitute.

Cotton is projected to be down 210,000 acres from last year's 870,000 acres while corn may be up 255,000 acres to 570,000 acres, according to farmer planting intentions reported to the Louisiana Agricultural Statistics Service.

"On the surface it might appear, 'no big deal, corn replaces cotton,' but in dollars and cents it will mean a substantial loss to the farm community. Cotton is a much more valuable crop than corn, acre-for-acre," Agriculture Commissioner Bob Odom said.

Although the drop won't be as big, rice is another big money maker that will see a decline in 2002, federal crop statisticians said.

First planting intentions reported to the statistics service indicate farmers intend to plant 660,000 acres of cotton, down from the 870,000 planted last year and 520,000 acres of rice which is down 28,000 acres from 2001. Soybeans, a lower value crop similar to corn, is expected to be up 10,000 acres to 650,000 acres.

"The two issues driving what farmers are going to go with this year are 'price and program,'" Odom said. "The prices being paid for our highest return crops are in the tank, and the uncertainty surrounding what farm programs are going to be finally approved by Congress has everyone guessing."

"If there is no second loan payment included in the new farm bill under consideration then virtually no program crop will cash flow," he said.

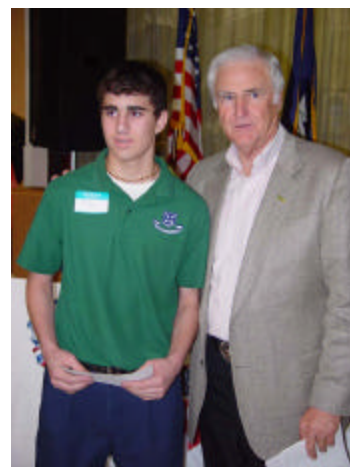

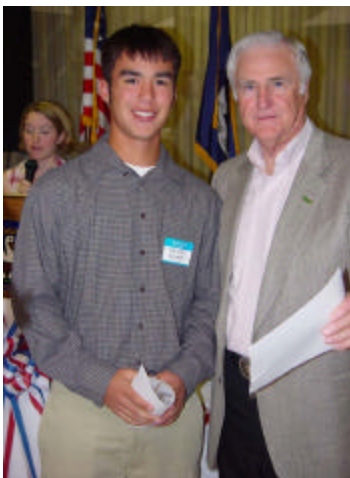

On the price side things have rarely been worse. "A year ago, cotton was selling for over 50-cents a pound. Today it's selling for about 30-cents a pound. A world glut of cotton, caused mainly by large carryover stocks from last year and beefed up Chinese production, is causing severely depressed cotton prices," Odom said.

Corn, meanwhile, is actually five-cents ahead of last year, selling recently for $1.92 a bushel compared to $1.87 at the same time last year, Odom noted.

Rice recently was selling for $3.70 a hundred pounds while this time last year it was selling for $6.10 a hundred pounds. The price of soybeans was stable this year compared to last, selling in the $4.50 a bushel range.

A final factor figuring in the equation are recent heavy rains, Odom said. "If the rains we've been experiencing continue and muddy conditions keep farmers from planting corn now, they may be left with no option but to plant cotton which can be planted up through mid-May or soybeans which can be planted as late as the end of June."

Other planting intentions gathered from farmers include sweet potatoes at 23,000 acres, down 1,000 acres from last year, and sorghum down 10,000 acres from last year to 220,000 acres.

Best in Agriculture & Forestry award winners

Students win Ag & Forestry Science Fair Awards

With the number of young farmers in the nation on a steady decline, Commissioner of Agriculture and Forestry Bob Odom initiated a new awards program this school year to promote agriculture and forestry awareness among junior high and high school students in Louisiana.

The Bob Odom Best in Agriculture and Forestry Science Fair Achievement Awards were presented at regional science fairs to students who exhibited outstanding projects in the fields of agriculture and forestry.

"Every year fewer and fewer young people enter the agriculture business. Through these awards I hope to encourage all students, not just those living in rural areas, to consider agriculture and forestry as a career," Odom said. "Even if they choose not to work in the industry as a farmer or forester, maybe we can spark an interest in the research or further marketing of agricultural and forestry commodities."

Research is particularly vital, Odom said. "In order to keep our current farmers in business and to continue this country's preeminent position as the world's number one food supplier, we need young people to develop new varieties, to advance farm and forest processes, and to bring new ideas to the table."

A team of judges from the Department of Agriculture and Forestry was sent to each regional science fair to select two Best in Agriculture and Forestry award winners. One winner was chosen from the junior division and one winner was chosen from the senior division. To qualify for the award, a student's project had to incorporate some aspect of agriculture and/or forestry.

"In a few instances our judges were overwhelmed by the number of creative, well-planned agriculture and (con'd on p.7)

Lagniappe Cookery...

Louisiana Crawfish

(Louisiana Crawfish are not only delicious, but extremely high in nutritional value. Crawfish are an excellent source of protein, calcium, phosphorous, iron, and the B vitamins (thiamine, riboflavin and niacin). Fat content of washed crawfish is very low, only about 1%. Crawfish muscle fibers are shorter than the muscle fibers in red meats and are, consequently, more easily digested).

Creole Crawfish

*1 pound Louisiana crawfish tails
juice of 1 lemon
1 teaspoon lemon pepper
*1/2 teaspoon Creole seasoning
*1 5½ ounce jar Creole mustard
½ cup ketchup
2 tablespoons horseradish
1 14 ounce can artichoke hearts, drained and chopped
½ cup capers
½ cup green onions, chopped
Rinse lightly and drain crawfish tails in a colander. Saute crawfish in lemon juice, lemon pepper and Creole seasonings in a medium- size skillet about 3 minutes. Set aside to cool. Combine mustard, ketchup and horseradish. Place crawfish mixture, artichokes, capers and green onions in mixing bowl. Toss to coat with half of mustard mixture (reserve other half). Refrigerate to chill. Add more of the mustard mixture, if needed, before serving. Serve with crackers.

Crawfish Casserole

1 8 ounce package cream cheese,

cubed
1 stick margarine
2 tablespoons margarine
*1 pound peeled Louisiana crawfish tails
*1 large onion, chopped
*1 large bell pepper, chopped
1 8 ounce package fresh mushrooms, sliced
1 10¾ ounce can cream of mushroom soup
*1 to 2 cups cooked Louisiana rice
*1 tablespoon garlic powder to taste
*½ teaspoon red pepper
*3 dashes white pepper
1½ - 2 cups grated Velveeta cheese
1 cup canned fried onion rings
In a double boiler melt 1 stick of margarine and add cubed cream cheese. Stir over low heat until cheese is melted. In separate skillet, melt 2 tablespoons margarine and saute crawfish tails, onions, bell peeper, mushrooms and crawfish until seasonings are limp. Add the mushroom soup and cooked rice. Add the cream cheese and margarine mixture to crawfish mixture. Stir and check for seasoning. Put in greased casserole. Top with Velveeta cheese and fried onion rings. Bake in 350 degree oven for about 30 minutes or until bubbly. Serves 8 to 10. Freezes well and can be made a day before.

Crawfish Tomato Hushpuppies

*1 lb. Louisiana Crawfish tailmeat, chopped
*1 pkg. hushpuppy mix
*2 eggs
*¾ cup buttermilk
*½ cup chopped onion
*½ cup chopped tomato
Peanut oil for frying
*Remoulade or tartar sauce
Combine all ingredients except oil and sauce and stir until smooth. Set aside for 5 minutes. Heat 3" of oil to 375 degrees. Drop batter by rounded spoonfuls into hot oil. Fry a few at a time until golden brown, turning once. Drain and serve immediately with remoulade or tartar sauce.
